Date: Monday July 14th, 2014

From: Krista Boston, Director – Consumer Choices Team and Megan Sheppard – HCBS Project Lead (Megan is joining the project until the final lead position is hired.)

Weekly Update Email Blast:

New Updates:

1. A new staff has been hired – Marc Hedman – he will be joining the report card team on July 30th. We say goodbye and thanks for all the hard work to Megan!

2. Contracts are in place for those organizations who will continue their work on the HCBS report card after August 1. This includes work to conduct the evaluation, evaluate ongoing data management in Minnesotahelp.info and to oversee the requirements (mock ups) for the report card in Minnesotahelp.info.

3. On August 14th, the team will be presenting the final legislative report on a statewide video conference and this includes a briefing on what was learned in all the meetings and the focus groups from stakeholders (consumers, providers and others). Look for that announcement shortly

4. A road show is currently planned for the 2nd-4th weeks in September. Dates will come out soon once locations are finalized. The road show plan is to showcase mockups (example) of what the final HCBS report card might look like in Minnesotahelp.info, and review the consumer and provider preferences around the measures. Key members of the team will be traveling throughout the metro and greater Minnesota over those three weeks to show the mock ups. Please stay tuned for final dates and information on where to attend a road show in your area.

5. The legislative report is completed and is circulating. We are on task to complete the final draft of this report in time for the August 1st, 2014 deadline to the Minnesota legislature.

Consumer focus groups

Assisted Living = 6 groups, 87 consumers
1. Consumers present: older and younger adults in assisted living, older adults living independently, caregivers with an older adult in assisted living
2. High level findings:
   a. Geographic location was cited as the most important factor for choosing assisted living. This was the top consideration for focus group participants, but does not have direct connections to consumer satisfaction. It was subjective to the distance closest to primary caregivers/family members and/or the community where the individuals had been living for a long period of time.
   b. After facility location, focus group participants identified staff, facility, cost, and services as key indicators when choosing assisted living

Independent Living Skills = 6 groups, 59 consumers
1. Consumers present: Individuals with disabilities, family members of individuals who receive services
2. High level findings:
   a. Consumers of ILS connected their experiences to their direct service provider and the agency employing those individuals. Potential report card measures are largely related to a consumer or family members’ perception of these individuals and organizations

Supported Employment = 6 groups, 59 consumers
1. Consumers present: Individuals with disabilities, family members of individuals who receive services
2. High level findings:
   a. Consumers and family member of individuals using SES connected their experiences to both the individual job counselor and provider agency. It should be noted that some focus group and interview respondents emphasized the larger employment supports and resources an agency provider offers and that this made a major difference in their experience
Provider Meetings

Providers had a different framework as it relates to the overall report card. The feedback coming from provider included:

- Reflect mental health needs
- Report card on registered housing with services vs providers with assisted living designation
- Have the ability to compare
- Preference around the report card being a coaching tool for consumers in making choices due to the difficulty in comparing cost and the wide variety of service offerings in some settings
- For the consumer reviews, offer an opportunity for the provider to respond and also monitor the data for age and relevancy over time
- There was a request to link the consumer reviews to the transitional consultation process as a way to market the reviews to consumers (for assisted living)
- Pay attention to reporting burden on the providers
- Take into consideration the amount of training the provider staff have in different cultures, ethnicities and sexual orientation
- Clearly define the services
- Pay attention to the data that may be available or policy considerations at the federal level
- The level at which a negative rating is displayed to the end user should related to the information that the consumer is searching
- Categorized the scores to make it more simply for the end consumer

But there are several areas of agreement.
